

MAUI WILL HAVE BEST HOUSES ON SCENIC ROUTES

Trail and Mountain Club Arranges
For Chain of Taverns
For Travelers

(From Monday Advertiser.)

The Trail and Mountain Club has arranged with the people of Maui for the establishment and maintenance of a series of accommodation houses around the island that will make it possible for the traveler and tramp to find food, bed and shelter every nine or ten miles along the roads and trails. There will be a charge for this service, and even those who have been entertained every chance passer-by free of charge are pledged to make the regular Trail and Mountain Club house charge of fifty cents a meal and the same rate for a night's lodging, whether in a bunk, a cot or a bed, the proceeds to be used for the maintenance of the rest house service.

This step on the part of Maui was an outcome of the work at the civic convention. Following Lorrin A. Thurston's lead in raising the money to build the Haleakala rest house, Alexander Hume Ford, another director of the Trail and Mountain Club, undertook to build a chain of such rest houses, while a third, W. F. Pogue of Maui, remained in Waikuku to facilitate matters along the line by telephone, with the result that within four days half a dozen of these rest houses were declared open for business, while many more are pledged and soon will be in operation.

How the Plans Matured

Mr. Ford returned from this work on Maui yesterday and gives the following account of the progress accomplished: "I learned at the convention," he said, "of an offer made by a plantation manager who entertains at his own expense hundreds of travelers a year, to build and donate rest houses, fully equipped and furnished, and that others would gladly follow his lead and do the same. Then I began to understand what it must cost the people of Maui to entertain tourists and others. When Mr. Thurston sprung his splendid campaign for the convention to raise the funds for the Haleakala rest house, I withdrew the delivery of my address so that he would have plenty of time, but it was all done in twenty minutes, and so easily that I realized that Maui was ripe for the advance movement and that then was the psychological moment to start around the island to secure the establishment of a chain of rest houses."

"Everything dovetailed," Gilbert Brown, an original member and expert mountain climber of the Trail and Mountain Club, now resident in Maui, was at the convention, and there is no better guide anywhere in these islands than Gilbert. We started out before the returning delegates arrived in Honolulu. We intended to tramp it, which we should have done, but Harold Rice insisted on providing horses, and we weakened. In Pala young Jack Walker joined us as our guide through the crater, and hereafter these youths will act as official guides in Maui for the Trail and Mountain Club.

Most Wonderful Trip

"Let me say right here that, racking my brain to recall every sight in every land visited on my recent trip around the Pacific and around the world, I can recall nothing to compare with the trip to the summit of Haleakala, across the crater, through Kaupo Gap, around the southeast of Kipahulu and Hana, and the wonderful Ditch trail. It is to my mind the most marvelous and varied scenic four-days' trip in the whole world. Honolulu can afford a big outlay and investment to make this an easily possible trip and to popularize it. Worth Aiken has a splendid place in Lihale, half way up Haleakala, and the Trail and Mountain Club may acquire another nearby. At Lihale, Mr. Aiken has his horses for the trip. The rest house is soon to be built on the summit, and in the crater, near the waterhole by the bubble cave, we selected a site for another rest house—one of the two on the entire trail that will be necessary to handle the masses for possible sleeping accommodation, and at small expense, as it is comparatively warm in the crater. Two Filipino house-builders from the Nahuiku rubber plantation are to be loaned for the erection of this rest house and another in Kaupo Gap."

Some Fine Arrangements

"In Kaupo arrangements are being completed with a resident to have his home used as a rest house. In Hana a four-room house, fully furnished and with native attendants to provide meals, has been provided by W. F. Pogue. In Nahuiku, W. A. Anderson, manager of the rubber plantations, is fitting up and furnishing a building near the store and restaurant as an accommodation house. In Keaone Valley, Mr. Groves has arranged to accommodate travelers at the ranch house, while in Huelo, Mr. Pogue has turned over quarters in his house there, where a force of servants is maintained, for the accommodation of travelers to and from the Ditch trail or around Maui. The Pieper house in Pala and the Waiuku Hotel will conform to the rest house rates so far as the actual members of the Trail and Mountain Club are concerned, and those members of the Sierra and other mainland mountain climbing clubs affiliated with the Trail and Mountain Club. Rev. Frank Dodge is arranging for accommodation houses on West Maui."

Plans are developing so rapidly that soon it will be possible to announce the location of each accommodation house on Maui and to issue a map showing their locations and distances between them.

"It is expected that in time some of these rest houses will grow into hotels, but not into hotels with bars, for the tramp and lover of scenery and real travel is not a 'booster.' He wants a quiet resting place at night, and a bar has no place in a small hotel."

SCHOOL CROWDING TO BE RELIEVED

Supervisors Take First Step Towards Remedying Overcrowded Conditions

Recent action by the board of supervisors will help to relieve the crowded condition of the Honolulu schools to some extent.

The committee on ways and means has recommended that out of $2700 appropriated for immediate use in school construction work, a two-room school be erected in Kaneohe. Another recommendation calls for the erection of a bungalow in the Kaunamau school grounds, to be used as a school for the teaching of domestic science, while a similar recommendation for $200 is for the construction of a building to be used as carpenter shop in the vocational training department at the Liliuokalani school.

People of Los Angeles Will Welcome Liner On Initial Triangular Trip

Elaborate plans are in preparation by the chamber of commerce of Los Angeles for a monster reception to be given to Capt. Henry Weeden, the officers and passengers of the Matson steamer Manoa when she arrives at San Pedro, the seaport of the southern California metropolis on October 20.

Through the combined requests of the Honolulu chamber of commerce and the Los Angeles chamber of commerce the Matson Navigation Company decided to make a trial trip to San Francisco via San Pedro, with the understanding that if enough passengers and freight were carried to pay the additional expense of this triangular run, the service would be continued.

No Increase In Fare

The fare to San Francisco on this route is the same as that from here to San Francisco direct and the schedule is so arranged that passengers have the opportunity of spending twenty-four hours in Los Angeles which may be devoted to sightseeing about this beautiful and interesting city.

"Aside from this feature," said Captain Weeden yesterday, "passengers have the opportunity of viewing the California coast as we steam north for San Francisco from San Pedro. Navigation is such in these waters that a steamer can hug the coast pretty well and in places one would think that you could almost throw a biscuit ashore from the steamer's deck. The voyage up the coast is a most enjoyable one and I hope that many Honoluluans will take advantage of it."

Big Cargo of Pineapples

More than 50,000 cases of pineapples will be shipped on the Manoa this trip for delivery at Los Angeles. In addition to this a new outlet has been found for fresh pineapples and bananas and a large quantity of these products will be shipped to southern California.

So enthusiastic are the merchants of America's greatest "Booster Town" over the possibilities of a new overseas trade being established that a large delegation of them have volunteered to meet the Manoa upon her arrival and will convey the passengers from San Pedro to Los Angeles in automobiles or one of the finest and most picturesque drives in California.

The Manoa will be dispatched for San Francisco via southern California tomorrow and already several prominent Honoluluans have booked for the trip.

INDIANAPOLIS, Indiana, Oct. 12.—(Associated Press by wire.)—President Gilmore, on behalf of the Indianapolis Club, winners of the Federal League pennant, yesterday forwarded a challenge to the winners of the major league world's series for the championship of the world.

There will be little chance of the Federal League meeting either the Braves or Athletics, as both have failed to recognize the Federals and have turned down several other offers of a like nature.

The smaller hotel the greater the nuisance is to the local guests. The tramp is not the kind of guest that the bar-supported hotel likes to have about.

"These accommodation houses are not to be run to make a profit. They may give a fair living to the caretakers, and they will induce men and women to visit Maui and see its wonders, once they realize they can do so without burdening the generosity of a few open-handed men who have for a few years kept open house for friend and stranger alike."

Maui has been aroused by the civic convention. The road to Haleakala will be built in the near future. Two years ago, when some of us suggested this, we were ridiculed. A few days ago Mr. Pogue invited me to meet on Friday evening in Waikuku county officials who were to discuss a plan to secure the priors for use on the construction of the road to Haleakala. Finding that I could not reach Waikuku by Friday night, I phoned in to Mr. Pogue that I felt certain that Oahu would put up her share of the expense. Superintendent of Public Works Forbes was at the meeting on Friday night and waxed enthusiastic over the project, so that the county board is willing to go ahead and provide the entire expense of maintaining the trip, while they are at work on the Haleakala road.

"C. D. Lufkin and the Walsh brothers are among those who are leading in the enthusiasm for a new and livelier Maui, and it has come."

ASHFORD EXTENDS SENTENCE OPINION

Holds It Absurd and Cruel To Contend Legislature Fixed Penalty Limits

(From Monday Advertiser.)

Judge Ashford has delved deeper into the law on the question of the constitutionality of the indeterminate sentence act passed by the legislature in 1909. In the case of the Territory against Kim Soon Gun, Judge Ashford recently declared it to be his opinion that the indeterminate law was unconstitutional.

Under the title of "Opinion as to Sentence Which Should Be Imposed," Judge Ashford Saturday morning decided a further and more extensive decision in the same case. It covers twenty-three typewritten pages and goes fully into the question.

Reasons for Court's Opinion

In conclusion Judge Ashford says: "It is freely conceded that to the legislature belongs the sole authority to define crimes, and prescribe their punishment. This our legislature has done, not only with reference to burglary, the offense now under discussion, but as regards the entire catalogue of crimes."

"For each crime the legislature has prescribed a penalty, but with very few exceptions (and the only one which now occurs to my mind is that of the penalty for murder in the first degree), a 'sliding scale' has been provided, whereby the courts, in the exercise of a judicial discretion, may impose either lenient or severe sentences, within the minimum and maximum limits provided by legislation, as shall appear to be called for by degree of merit or demerit in the offender, as shown upon the trial."

"And the legislature having failed to express or intimate its purpose to abolish the 'sliding scale' above referred to, that scale must be considered as still existing."

Absurd and Cruel

"And it appears to the writer absurd and cruel to contend that where the legislature has fixed limits so wide as are represented in the particular case here under review, viz., an imprisonment which may range from one day to ten years, still, under the 'benevolent' provisions of the indeterminate sentence act, every sentence under this section here applicable must be considered as a sentence of imprisonment for ten years, leaving it to the uncontrolled whim and caprice of administrative officers to reduce and mitigate such sentence, if they shall see fit; otherwise that all offenders shall suffer identical terms of imprisonment, irrespective of the peculiar and sometimes controlling circumstances of their several offenses."

Allyes Claim Gains On the Left

and Right Despite Counter Attacks

PARIS, October 11.—(Associated Press by Federal Wire.)—An official statement of the situation in Northern France, issued last night, stated that a vigorous cavalry battle had been in progress during the day southwest of Lille.

The Allies have advanced from Arras and there was fighting going on last night to the south, the east and the north of that point.

The attacks of the Germans from the heights of the Meuse were continuing.

An earlier announcement said that the situation remains satisfactory, with the Allies' lines intact along the front, despite attempts of the Germans to piece it. Real progress has been made north of the Oise, on the left wing, and before St. Mihiel, on the right.

GERMAN FLANKERS FAIL

LONDON, October 10.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail says that on Thursday the Germans were driven back thirteen miles from Arras and Turcoy by the Allies. They intended to cover and flank the main advance on Lille and Arras. When the screening forces were routed, the main guard evacuated the Lille district.

BOSTON, October 11.—(Associated Press by Federal Wire.)—While the liner Devonian was approaching this port in a fog, Mrs. Annie Robinson, a former stewardess on the liner Titanic, jumped overboard and was lost.

She had been suffering from nervous trouble since her rescue from the sinking Titanic off the Newfoundland Banks. It is believed that memories of the Titanic catastrophe, aggravated by a similar condition of fog, brought on a fit of depression which caused her to become deranged.
